

Sarah Milne

I am passionate about the transformative power of governance and am committed to supporting schools and trusts to deliver the best possible outcomes for children and young people. I currently serve as a governor in a cross-phase catholic MAT, a trustee of an cross-phase inner city MAT, and also a trustee of a special school MAT. These roles have given me a broad and nuanced understanding of governance across different phases, contexts, and communities.

My experience spans strategic oversight, safeguarding, curriculum development, and financial scrutiny. I bring a strong understanding of the challenges and opportunities of navigating complex policy landscapes, ensuring inclusive practice, and maintaining high standards of accountability. I am deeply committed to ethical leadership and equity, and I work to ensure that governance is both rigorous and compassionate.

As a trustee, I bring a collaborative mindset and a clear focus on impact. I am skilled in building consensus, asking the right questions, and supporting executive leaders to deliver on strategic priorities. I have experience in risk management, stakeholder engagement, and organisational development, and I understand the importance of balancing support with challenge.

I would be proud to contribute to the National Governance Association's mission as a trustee, bringing my experience across diverse educational settings and my commitment to inclusive, effective governance. I believe I can offer strategic insight, sector knowledge, and a strong values base to support the work of the NGA and, ultimately, work to improve the outcomes of children and young people across the country.
