The National Governance Association (NGA) is an independent charity representing and supporting governors, trustees and clerks in maintained schools and academies in England.

With more than 58,000 governor members they support over a quarter of schools in England and are the leading campaigning national membership organisation for school governors, trustees, and clerks.

35k circulation

Governing Matters is NGA's official membership magazine and is published six times a year. Sent to members' schools and homes, it is essential reading for school governors providing strategic leadership in schools and academies. Contributors include NGA staff, policy makers, government ministers, governors and others involved in education.

Each issue includes the latest news from the organisation, changes in policy and advice on running schools and managing school leaders.

Relaunched in 2016 with a new design, it includes the same high standard of editorial and is a more engaging magazine for members.
